Chapter 202: The Limitless Army of the Shadow Lords

The Shadow Lords, the pinnacle of Sung Jin-Woo's creations, had reached unimaginable numbers due to the unique mechanics of his inner worlds. These inner realms, with their time dilation and boundless potential for growth, became a breeding ground for their vast numbers.

The Time Dilation Effect

Sung Jin-Woo's inner worlds operated under a complex time dilation system. Inside these worlds, one second outside equaled one million years of progression within. This drastic difference allowed the Shadow Lords to multiply and evolve at an exponential rate each time they visited. Every moment they spent within the realms was effectively thousands, millions, or even billions of years outside, leading to tens of sextillions of Shadow Lords emerging from these realms in short periods.

As the Shadow Lords traveled between the inner worlds and the outside, the growth of their numbers accelerated exponentially, crossing into realms once thought unreachable. Their sheer volume was now on the brink of unimaginable limits—tens of sextillions.

The Centillion-Strong Army of Materialized Shadow Soldiers

Despite the overwhelming numbers of the Shadow Lords, their numbers were dwarfed by another creation of Sung Jin-Woo: his materialized shadow soldiers. These soldiers were crafted from pure willpower, drawn from the very fabric of existence and brought into being from nothing.

Over the course of countless battles and expansions, these shadow soldiers had grown in number to staggering proportions, reaching into the centillions. This centillion-strong army was a force of unimaginable power, its sheer scale rendering any resistance almost impossible.

Unlike the Shadow Lords, who were born and nurtured within the confines of Sung Jin-Woo's inner worlds, the materialized shadow soldiers existed through sheer creation, born from nothing more than the Scepter of Dominion's will. Their numbers were limitless, existing in vast, endless quantities that stretched across dimensions and timelines.

A Force Unmatched in the Multiverse

Together, the Shadow Lords and the materialized shadow soldiers formed a nearly invincible force, with numbers that spanned into the centillions and beyond. With these forces at his disposal, Sung Jin-Woo had become a ruler whose power and reach extended beyond any known limit.

Even in the face of these overwhelming forces, no other power dared to challenge the might of the Shadow Sovereign. With such a vast army and the ability to continually expand and regenerate, Sung Jin-Woo's dominion over the multiverse seemed eternal, ensuring that his reign would persist unchallenged for as long as time itself.
